(THE WORK)

We developed the creative strategy, branding, scripting, and programming for Meta's first-ever virtual summit series. Each four-hour live broadcast connected employees around the world in real time moments through storytelling, workshops, and performances. The programming featured artists and leaders such as Yara Shahidi, Spike Lee, Serena Williams, Maluma, and Illarra Kinther, alongside Meta teams from around the world.

THE IMPACT

More than 20,000 participants joined the summits across regions, establishing a new tradition of global connection and accountability inside Meta. What began as a pandemic pivot evolved into a multi-year series that continues to shape how the company builds culture and community from within.
